FRENCH LICK

WEST BADEN SPRINGS.

In the highlands of Indiana—a two hours ride from Louisville there flow wonderful healing waters, that you'd spend hundreds of dollars to enjoy if they were in Europe.

A recent visitor from Philadelphia, who formerly went to Carlsbad every year, said: "I do not see why anyone goes to Europe for medicinal waters. The water is as beneficial, and the scenery and surrounding country, the air and the opportunities for recreation are better; the hotels and accommodations are much finer at French Lick-West Baden Springs"—and this gentleman is a native of Switzerland.

The splendidly wooded hills with the cool, invigorating air of these highlands where one can enjoy rambles in the depths of the forest, or rides and drives among the numerous bridle paths and roadways, afford pleasure for those who desire rest and quiet; while at the splendid and casinos one can have all the entertainment and social pleasures possible at the most fashionable resorts

Famous Beer.

The famous Windisch-Maulhauser Brewing Co., of Cincinnati, has made itself famous the world over for its excellent quality of beers. The use of the 'Pale Lion Export' is no longer considered a luxury, but has been so generally recognized by physicians for its nutritive and health-giving qualities, that it has become a necessity. Those who have never used it to quench their thirst or experienced its exhilarating effects, should give this famous beer a trial, will pronounce it the criterion of all bottled beers.

We invite you to test the merits of our "Genuine Old Lager." It is a veritable boon to convalescents, nursing mothers, nerve elixir, and finally, though by no means least, important as a stimulator of cheerfulness, it is incomparable.

OIL NEWS.

A Great Boom In Wayne County.

Never in the history of the oil industry of Kentucky has there been more excitement or greater surprise than the gusher which was brought in Wednesday in Wayne county. This well at a depth of 36 feet struck an oil sand 36 feet thick, and when the drill was removed the oil flowed ten feet above the derrick. Oil men say without any hesitation that this is the best well that has been discovered in the county and opens up a great oil field, resembling more the Pennsylvania oil fields than anything which has yet been discovered in Kentucky.

The leases are selling at $20 per acre five miles from the well, and great excitement prevails throughout the county. For ten days only the Bell Oil & Gas Co. have decided to sell a limited number of shares at $5 per share, par value $10. This company will put down three wells at once within 1,500 feet of this gusher on their lease of 250 acres which adjoins the well. They are as certain to strike oil as it is possible to be under such favorable surroundings.

The company owns over 2,000 acres in Wayne County and has 9,000 acres in other producing counties. The company is composed of some of the leading men in Lexington, Monticello and Michigan. Those desiring a safe investment should act quick, for there is only a limited number of shares for sale and the limit of time is ten days.

For stock and further particulars, address Judge W. R. Cress, Secretary of the Bell Oil & Gas Co., Monticello, Ky. 3t

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower, for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Trouble that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual constiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. W. T. Brooks.

G. G. GREEN, Woodbury, N. J.

Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents.—W. T. Brooks.

INTERNATIONAL RACES

Fourth Struggle Declared Off Because of Expiration of Time.

This Saved the Englishman From Defeat—The Reliance Was Near the Finish and the Shamrock Was Over Two Miles Astern.

New York, Aug. 28.—With Reliance less than a third of a mile from the finish and Shamrock III. hull down on the horizon, fully two miles astern of the defender, the fourth race of the present series for the Americas cup Thursday, was declared off because of the expiration of the time limit of 5½ hours as appointed on Thursday last. Although officially it was no race the defeat administered to the challenger was so ignominious that whatever lingering hope remained in the breasts of the friends of Sir Thomas' boat vanished into thin air. Reliance's victory was in every way more decisive than that of last Saturday. Outsailed, outpointed and outfitted, it was a procession from start to finish, with Shamrock bringing up the rear. Here Shamrock's boat beat Shamrock III. hopelessly in the 15 miles of windward work, rounding the outer mark 12 minutes and 29 seconds, and down the wind Reliance steadily increased the lead. The real race of the day was not in the run against Shamrock, but in the exciting struggle of Reliance in the last half hour to reach the finish line before the regatta committee fired the gun which announced the expiration of the time limit. Had the wind freshened 20 minutes earlier than it did, the cup series would have ended Thursday with three straight wins for the defender, and Fife's light weather boat would have sailed back to Albi's shores one of the most disastrously worsted challengers in the history of the America's cup contests.

The next race, which will be like the one attempted Thursday, 15 miles to leeward or windward and return, will be sailed on Saturday.

THE BALKAN SITUATION.

The Revolutionists Have Destroyed All Posts Along the Frontier.

Sofia, Aug. 29.—The general situation in the vilayet of Adrianople continues alarming. The revolutionaries have destroyed all the Turkish posts along the frontier.

The Autonomie says the Turkish commander in the district of Seres has ordered his subordinates to kill and destroy everybody and everything Bulgarian as soon as the insurgent bands appear. The Turkish population is fleeing towards Constantinople. Eight hundred men, women and children have gone to Yasilko and the Turkish government is arranging to send them to Asia Minor.

A fierce fight has occurred at Pasakui, 20 miles from Adrianople, where three Turkish battalions surrounded a body of insurgents. A second band of rebels came to the assistance of their comrades, who thereupon broke through the cordon, killing 150 Turks. The Macedonian organization is reported to be planning a big movement. Gen. Zontcheff is said to be organizing a body of 5,000 Macedonians to cross the frontier.

The Macedonian committee has urgently appealed to Prince Ferdinand to show greater interest in the Macedonian situation, saying if Macedonia is not soon liberated the position of Bulgaria will become exceedingly critical. The Dnevnik prints what purports to be the accurate details of the train outrage near Kueli Burgas. It says a package was placed in the restaurant car of the train at Buda Pest containing the bomb with a clockwork attachment which was timed to explode as the train was crossing the bridge at Maritza. It was intended to destroy the bridge and cut off communication between Adrianople and Salonica.

AN ALLEGED SWINDLE.

Man Arrested Charged With Working a "Fake" Directory.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 28.—A "fake directory" swindle of national proportions and by means of which over $1,000,000 has been taken from merchants, bankers, etc., all over the country, is alleged by the local detectives as the ground for the arrest of Jacob W. Geist, who claimed to represent the National Gazetteer, of New York and Chicago, was taken into custody here Thursday charged with having obtained money by false pretenses from five local firms. The officers declare that Geist's doings are connected with those of James Fallon, arrested in New York last April, and of Arthur Hubbard, arrested in Washington about the same time on similar charges. According to the officers the men go to merchants to solicit advertising in a national business directory and rating book. If a bona fide order signed by the merchant is given it is raised in amount and so changed as to provide for payment at a date before delivery of the directory and advertisements. If the merchant refuses he is persuaded to sign a blank application for a sample copy which later appears as a contract for payment over the victim's signature. It is said that many merchants have paid amounts ranging from $25 to $100. The officers claim the scheme is being worked all over the United States and Europe with a central office where the papers are altered by means of acids and printing appliances.

POWERS' THIRD TRIAL.

Again Found Guilty of Complicity in Goebel Murder.

Special Judge Robbins Overruled Motion For New Trial and Sentenced Him to Hang November 25—Case Will Be Appealed.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 31.—Caleb Powers was Saturday found guilty of complicity in the assassination of William Goebel and sentenced to death. Special Judge Robbins formally overruled a motion for the granting of a new trial and passed sentence of death upon him after a declaration of the prisoner, "I am not guilty, judge." The court fixed November 25 next as the day for the execution. The attorneys for the defendant secured the granting of an appeal for the case to the Kentucky court of appeals, and, if unsuccessful, they may try to get the United States supreme court to take it under consideration. Powers was the coolest man in the courtroom when the verdict was read and sentence pronounced against him. He was immediately removed to the Scott jail, to be there held pending the appeal of his case to the higher courts.

Powers refused to say anything after the rendition of the verdict, only saying that he had said all that he cared to in his speech to the jury.

ROBBED THE OFFICE.

Two Men Killed and Two Wounded By Hold-Up Men.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Without a word of warning two men were killed and two others wounded by hold-up men at the barns of the Chicago City Railway Co., Sixty-first and State streets, at an early hour Sunday. The shooting was done by three men, who escaped after securing $3,000. Three of the men who were shot were working in the cashier's office, and the other was a motorman asleep in the outer office. The men in the office were shot before they were aware of the robbers' presence, and the motorman was killed as he was rising from a bench where he had been asleep.

The robbers took no chances but disposed of all the opposition of the employees before they entered the office. Choosing the time when the employees were busily engaged in balancing up the receipts of the night, just after the last conductor had turned in his money and left the barns the robbers suddenly appeared at the receiving window and began shooting. The first intimation those inside the office had that anything was wrong was when they heard the shots. The first bullet struck Stewart, and he fell to the floor without a word. Biehl and Edmond, who were sitting near Stewart, turned to see what was the matter, but before they could leave their chairs they were rendered helpless by the well-directed bullets of the robbers. Johnson, the motorman who was asleep on a bench in the outer office, hearing the noise, started up to go to the assistance of his companions, but was shot and killed before he could get to his feet. Making sure that all opposition had been removed the robbers then broke open the door of the cashier's office with a sledge hammer, and secured $3,000 in bills which was lying on the desk. They then made their escape. Four men were arrested three hours after the robbery, on suspicion of being implicated in the crime, but they have not as yet been identified.

New York, Aug. 31.—In a supposed fit of insanity Mrs. Kathleen Johnson, 20 years old, living in an apartment house at Fifth avenue and One Hundred and First street, Sunday attempted to kill her 7-year-old daughter, Alice, cutting her right wrist with a carving knife, and then slashed her own left wrist and her throat with the same weapon, inflicting injuries from which she died a few hours later. The little girl will recover.

THE CREW ESCAPED.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—The passenger steamer Pittsburg, running between Cleveland and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and owned by the Georgian Bay Transportation Co., of which W. J. Brown, of this city, is manager, burned to the water's edge at her dock in Sandwich, Ont., early Sunday. The crew escaped uninjured.

The J. P.'s Agree.

Staunton, Ark., Aug. 31.—News comes from Duff, Searcy Co., this state, that Mr. T. E. Reeves, a Justice of the Peace at that place, has written a letter recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills in which he says:

"I think Dodd's Kidney Pills can't be beat for Kidney Trouble, and I wish them every success."

The local J. P. Mr. E. B. Cox agrees with his brother Justice on this point for he says: "I had a bad case of Kidney Trouble and was not able to do a day's work without great distress. I bought six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and after I had used three boxes I was all right. I am as well as ever, and I cannot praise Dodd's Kidney Pills too highly."

"I have given the other three boxes to some friends of mine who had found out what it was that had cured me so satisfactorily and quickly and they all speak highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

No one disputes this unanimous verdict.

Unavoidable Delay.

The irate heirs called at the general office of the life insurance company. "We want to know," they said, "why you are so long in paying the $10,000 called for in the policy our deceased relative carried in this company. He died three months ago, and we were promised we should have it in less than 60 days."

"What was his name?" asked the president. "Benjamin Franklin Lunderschlagel." "Ah, that is the reason, gentlemen," affably explained the president of the concern. "If it had been a short, easy name like David Jones or Thomas Johnson the matter would have been settled and you would have got your money long ago."—Chicago Tribune.

FIRED AT A CONSUL.

Attempt to Assassinate Wm. C. Magelssen at Beirut, Syria.

The European Squadron Has Been Ordered to Proceed to Turkish Waters to Protect the Interests of Americans.

Washington, Aug. 29.—A decidedly new turn in the case of United States Vice-Consul Wm. C. Magelssen, at Beirut, Syria, who was reported to have been assassinated last Sunday, developed Friday night, when it became known that the report was incorrect, and that although Mr. Magelssen had been shot at he had not even been injured. This information came to the state department Friday night in a dispatch from United States Minister Leishman at Constantinople, who said the mistake in making the original announcement was due to an error in the transmission of the cipher dispatch from Consul Rayndal at Beirut in reporting the incident to the minister. The dispatch from the minister was communicated to the president at once at Oyster Bay.

Acting Secretary Loomis declined to make public the text of Minister Leishman's dispatch, but he gave a summary of its contents.

It showed that Mr. Magelssen had been shot at by some person at the time unknown to the officials, but that he had not been hit. The local Turkish officials were prompt to express their regret at the occurrence, and were exerting themselves to apprehend the assassin, but thus far had been unsuccessful. The minister's dispatch also said that Consul Rayndal had reported to him that some of the foreign consuls located at Beirut had reported to their governments that the situation at that place had become exceedingly unsafe, that this condition of affairs had existed for some time, and that something ought to be done to relieve the tension. The opinion was expressed that the attempted assassination of Magelssen probably would bring matters to a focus, the attention of the Turkish government being drawn to the matter in this forcible way, and some effort thus made to avoid further trouble.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt was informed Friday night of the incorrectness of the report that Vice Consul Wm. C. Magelssen at Beirut, Syria, had been assassinated.

The president expressed gratification that he had escaped without injury from the would-be assassin. He announced, however, that no change at present would be made in the plans of this government, and that the European squadron, which he Thursday night ordered to proceed immediately to Beirut, would continue to its ordered destination.

It can be said that the president and Secretary of State Hay both regard it advisable, in view of the present state of unrest in Turkey, to have American war vessels in Turkish waters.

For several hours Friday President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hay were in conference at Sagamore Hill. They discussed every suggested phase of the situation in Turkey. At the conclusion of the conference Secretary Hay announced his intention of returning immediately to Washington.

Constantinople, Aug. 31.—Since the representations made by United States Minister Leishman regarding the attempt on the life of Vice Consul Magelssen, the authorities at Beirut are displaying a marked activity in their efforts to find the culprit.

London, Aug. 31.—A dispatch from Constantinople dated August 29 to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says it is understood that after an interview with Foreign Minister Tewfik Pasha, Minister Leishman requested Washington to recall the European squadron, which has been ordered to Beirut.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The bureau of navigation of the navy department has been advised that the cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco sailed from Genoa Sunday morning and are expected to arrive at Beirut Friday.

London, Aug. 31.—A Sofia correspondent says that the Beirut affair was merely a wedding party indulging in a few de jole, and the shots were not directed with design against Vice Consul Magelssen.

SNAPPED THE HANDCUFFS.

A Constable Wanted To Show His Wife How They Worked.

Pittsburg, Aug. 31.—Henry Lauer, constable of the thirty-first ward, in order to show his wife how handcuffs worked, put them around her wrists. The cuffs snapped together, and Lauer had no key to unlock them. There was nothing to do but go down to the police station.

Mrs. Lauer did not want to march through the streets handcuffed, so they decided to wait until dark. Mrs. Lauer had to eat her supper with the handcuffs on, and afterward they went down to the Southside police station, where Capt. Fredericks unlocked imprisoned wife.

FROM THE JAWS OF DEATH.

Prompt Action of C. Oliver Iselin Saves a Dozen Lives.

New York, Aug. 31.—During a strong northeast gale eight miles off Highlands, N. J., at half-past 10 o'clock Saturday night, the three-masted schooner Henry P. Mason, from Perth Amboy, N. J., for Portland, Me., struck, it is believed, a submerged wreck, and at 1:30 Sunday morning sunk. The crew and two passengers of the schooner took to the vessel's small boat and, after being buffeted by the heavy seas all night and part of Sunday, were rescued by Capt. Paterson and the Sandy Hook life saving crew, who were towed out to the boat one mile off Galilee by the New York Yacht club's committee boat Navigator, on which was C. Oliver Iselin, managing owner of the yacht Reliance, and Bert C. Leeds. The survivors reached Sandy Hook at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon on board the Navigator, apparently in good condition, and later were brought by the same vessel to this city. It is believed the schooner will be a total loss.

Repeated efforts had been made by the life saving crews to launch a boat to go to the assistance of the shipwreck, but the heavy sea running made it impossible for them to launch their boats. Meanwhile word had been sent to Sandy Hook for assistance and Mr. Iselin volunteered the service of the Navigator to tow the life savers to shore to where the small boat was momentarily in danger of being swamped.

It was 11 o'clock Sunday morning when the Navigator located the 12 persons in their perilous position, and it was fully an hour before they could be rescued. This was accomplished in as daring a manner as has been told in any sea tale, fiction or fact. The big tug made several attempts to get near the yawl, and then finally going to windward of them, cast off the life line. With splendid dexterity a pole was sent from the life boat to a pole on the fish pound, and then was paid out until the yawl was reached.

In such condition were the shipwrecked ones that they could not help themselves, and Capt. Patterson and his crew had to simply lift them out. First came the two women and then three sailors. Meantime, under the direction of Mr. Iselin, the Navigator's crew had thrown a dozen pails of oil overboard to the windward of the yawl so that the sea was calmed and the big tug had taken a position so that the wind did not catch her on the beam. The women, when brought aboard, were carefully attended to. Mr. Iselin having taken along a chambermaid from the tender Sunbeam. Capt. Frost, of the Mason, said that just before the Navigator arrived they had concluded that the women would die in a few hours, and they had decided to try for the beach. He said that Saturday when they were out near the lightship at anchor the Old Dominion line steamer Hamilton offered to take them off, and he urged the women to go, but they declined to leave without the men. The men thought the storm would abate, and they would get the boat to harbor in safety.

Thousands along the shore watched the clever work of the life savers. Twice the life boat was filled level with water, but she is a self-bailer and cleared herself. The going down in tow of the Navigator was in itself a perilous thing in such a sea. When the men returned Mr. Iselin said a special word of praise to them, and in return was heartily cheered. When Capt. Paterson asked for the assistance of the Navigator, Capt. Charles Barr, of the Reliance stood by. He added: "I have 50 men; every one of them will volunteer to help if you want them."

Capt. Paterson explained that it was a tug and not the men that was needed.

OATH OF LABOR UNIONS.

No Catholic Can Consistently Take or Keep Some of Them.

Marshall, Mich., Aug. 31.—Rev. Dr. P. A. Baart, rector of St. Mary's church of this city, Sunday in a sermon on education said that no Catholic could consistently take or keep the oath of some labor unions and he mentioned particularly the typographical union, part of whose oath he quotes as follows:

"I hereby solemnly and sincerely swear that my fidelity to the typographical union and my duty to the members thereof, shall in no sense be interfered with by any allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political or religious."

Father Baart said this oath places the union before the church and before the state and distinctly impeached the loyalty and Catholicity of those who take such an oath. Possibly, the leaders may not have realized the full force of the words they used in their oath, he said, but whether they did or not, every patriotic citizen and every sincere, consistent Catholic should demand that such an oath be modified and that the objectionable clause be cut out.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Commissioners Will Begin Their Investigations in London.

The Whole Boundary Controversy Centers Upon the Dominion Government's Effort to Acquire an Outlet to the Sea.

London, Aug. 31.—Secretary of War Elihu Root, ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, Hannis Taylor and Judge John M. Dickinson, arrived at Liverpool on the Celtic Sunday for the meetings of the Alaskan boundary commission which will open in London September 3. They were received at Liverpool by Mr. Petherick, assistant United States dispatch agent, on behalf of the American embassy. The party came directly to London and on their arrival here were met by Secretary Carter, of the United States embassy.

Mr. Root registered at the Hyde Park hotel, while the other members of the party established themselves at the Carlton hotel. The Canadian commissioners are also here.

United States Ambassador Choate has arranged to give a dinner in honor of Secretary Root at which all the American and British representatives will be present. The commissioners are already familiar with the facts of the case on both sides which were filed several months ago. At the first meeting of the commissioners next Thursday the Americans and Canadians will submit their briefs, which will be a condensation of the facts and arguments regarding the interpretation of the treaty. The commission will then announce the day on which the oral arguments will be heard.

The arguments have not yet been made public, but it is learned that the whole controversy centers upon Canada's effort to acquire an outlet to the sea. It is known authoritatively that under the Russo-British treaty of 1825 the line properly crosses numerous inlets, including the headwaters of the Lynn canal. The contention seems to be that the inlets less than six miles wide situated in the disputed region belong to Canada. United States Counsel Foster vigorously opposes this view, holding that the treaty clearly places the line 30 miles inland, following the sinuosities of the coast and thus separates Canada from all the arms of the ocean and puts Porcupine creek and the gold district under American jurisdiction.

The American representatives are confident that their position is unsailable. The commissioners expect that the complete consideration of the entire case will take less than two months and that even should the commission fail to render a majority award the facts will be clearly established. This will lead to an easier settlement in the future.

Secretary Root intends to take advantage of the recess between the filings of the briefs and the oral arguments to witness the British army maneuvers.

THE FLAGSHIP YANKEE.

The Vessel Entered Newport, R. I., With Her Bunkers Afire.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 31.—The flagship Yankee, of the naval training squadron, which is flying the flag of R. Adm. W. C. Wise, and which has been engaged in the maneuvers off Portland, entered the harbor Sunday morning with her midship bunker afire. The fire was discovered Thursday morning by smoke on the gun deck. Some 200 tons of coal were removed from the top of the bunker, leaving some 300 tons. Then the fire hose was used and since that time the fire has been smoldering. The crew is still engaged in moving the coal from one bunker to another. The Yankee coaled at Bar Harbor on August 9, and this is some of the soft coal that was taken aboard there.

Adm. Wise will inspect the training station Monday, and the training ship Monongahela. The latter vessel will then go to League island for repairs.

The Council.

While the "Old Council," through its "official organ" is stating the reasons why "tax-payers" should support them for re-election the following strictly "business" reasons must not be overlooked. When this regime took control, a firm which stands at the head of the Paris bar, was acting as City Attorneys at a salary of $250 per year. The place was wanted for friends of the "Administration," and was given to a firm of young lawyers at $500 per year—just double the salary of the other firm—the tax-payers footed the bill.

Shortly afterwards the back tax litigation against the banks came on. If the old firm had been retained at $250 a year instead of the new one at $500 a year, the new council could not have thought it necessary to employ additional counsel to take charge of the litigation. But whether they thought the new firm not competent to manage a simple litigation where only questions of law were involved, or whether they only wanted to give some of the money of the tax-payer to a "friend" of the "Administration" (in other places called "rings") to take charge of this litigation at a fee of $1,500. This shows excellent business management so far, and ought to recommend the Old Council to the tax-payers—five hundred dollars salary per year instead of $250 and $1,500 for "help" for the new lawyers when no one could have thought it necessary to employ "help" for the old firm.

This same member of the Council who was employed to "help" the City Attorneys had been previously appointed on a committee to compile by-laws for the city. No Councilman is entitled to compensation for any service rendered as such, but the "Administration" gave him $300 of the tax-payers' money for his services on this committee, and of course the tax-payers wept tears of joy when asked to foot the bill.

The City Collector is entitled to a commission—2½ per cent. we believe—ON THE MONEY WHICH HE ACTUALLY COLLECTS. He is not entitled to any commission or compensation of any kind on any money which he does not collect. Bear that in mind.

Well, when the Bank suits were finally settled, the banks paid a large sum of money—something like $60,000, more or less. It was paid by them to the $1,500 attorney, and was turned over by him into the City Treasury. The City Collector had no part whatever in making this collection. It didn't even pass through his hands, but was paid into the City Treasury by the $1,500 attorney. The Collector was entitled to no compensation for collecting this money, because he didn't collect it, and because another man was paid for collecting it—and yet this "business," this "progressive" Council paid the Collector his regular commission on all this money. This was nothing more or less than a gift of about $1,500 of the peoples' money—and the tax-payers footed the bill again, joyously thanking God for the privilege.

Sometime ago a member of one of the committees of the Council informed THE BOURBON NEWS and Kentuckian-Citizen that the city printing would be let next meeting of the Council and asked us to send in bids on it, which we did. At the proper time the committeeman arose and said that he had some bids on the city printing which he wished to present. The "Administration Leader" sprang to his feet with the statement that it was not necessary to examine the bids and moved that the printing be given to the Paris Democrat, and this was done and our bids were not even allowed to be opened, and the city printing cost the tax-payers of Paris more than double what it would if the bid of THE NEWS had been accepted. And the tax-payers foot the bills.

The average citizen dearly loves to pay tax and as the Old Council can find lots of places to put the tax money where it will do the most good (for themselves), of course the "tax-payers are almost a unit for the Old Council."

Wilbur Smith's Business College, Lexington, Ky.—Making Our Boys Successful Business Men.

Many of our leading bank men, merchants and officials are graduates of Prof. W. R. Smith. Others from this county who had ambition to attend this college have secured fine positions in different cities as Bookkeepers, Stenographers, Telegraphers, etc. Prof. Smith's College is responsible and influential besides being thorough and cheap—it pays to attend the best. It is the only business college in America a part of a famous University. Students from Paris, Millersburg and way-points on the L. & N. railroad secure tickets at reduced rates, which enables them to reach Lexington at 8:30 a. m. and return at 5:30 in the evening. Many do this every year. Write now for a large illustrated circular free. Address,

Look at the list of candidates of the new ticket for council. They are all well known to the people of Paris. Now answer this: Does anybody believe that if this ticket were elected a scandal like that connected with the interurban franchise would be possible to all? Where ever there are rings there are bound to be scandals. Let's break up the ring.

Caleb Powers Found Guilty.

Caleb Powers has been found guilty of complicity in the assassination of William Goebel, and now stands under sentence of death. The verdict has not been reached in haste, nor was sentence pronounced until the prisoner had been granted every defense known to the law. It cannot be said that the man found guilty by three separate juries has been made the victim of partisan malice or illegal prosecution. The evidence, full and exhaustive in every trial, has but been strengthened as investigation into his case proceeded. The crime of Goebel's death could not have been passed over, if Kentucky were to hold her place among sister States. The slow, sure process of the law and evidence has marked out Powers as one of the men primarily responsible for that crime. When that was done his death was inevitable. Others will now tremble. The beginning of the end has come.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Looking For a Wife," a big musical farce comedy, will be the opening attraction in our city. The company is a large one and is said to be headed by some of the best comedians now on the comedy stage. The plot of the play is laid in New York and the first act of the piece shows the Grand Circle, at the Broadway and Fifty-ninth street entrance to Central Park. This scene is said to be absolutely correct in every detail. The second act shows the interior of a summer hotel at Bluff Beach, N. J., and many of the funniest complications of the piece take place in this act. The third act presents the beach and exterior of the hotel. Every piece of scenery used in the play is carried by the company, and no expense has been spared by the management to make the scenic effects complete in every detail. The play abounds in catchy musical numbers and pleasing specialties. Seat sale opens Sept. 1st, at Borland's.

UNPROVOKED MURDER.—David Dailey, a white man, was shot and killed at Maysville, by two drunken negroes during a quarrel over an accident. It was after dark and Dailey ran into the negroes, who were in a buggy, they demanded pay, and Dailey told them to wait until morning so they could see how much damage was done and he would pay them. They demanded $10 at once and on his refusal to give it to them immediately, was shot down like a dog.

D. OF C.—The Daughters of the Confederacy, of Winchester, are nothing, if not progressive and are at all times awake to the needs of charity. A News reporter learned that they are continually making donations to the Confederate home at Pewee Valley, besides helping other charities. The good ladies connected with the society here in Paris have a good work before them and should not be neglectful. It would be well for those interested to remember the old soldiers and make suitable donations and clothing, now that the winter months will soon be with us.

CUPID'S ARROW.

—The Lexington Leader of Sunday says: "Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock the marriage of Miss Margaret Zula Welch to Mr. Jacob Henry Fuhrman will be solemnized at the home of Mrs. Caroline Welch on West Short street. Rev. Mark Collis, of the Broadway Christian Church will be the officiating minister and the only attendants will be the little flower girl, Katherine Slavin, and the two ribbon children, Willie Chisholm and Carrie Adamson. Miss Emma Tevis Powell will play the wedding music. After the marriage the couple will leave for a trip to Baltimore, Washington, D. C., and other Eastern cities, and returning will make their home in Paris, Ky."

—Mr. R. S. Porter and Miss Bertha Ramp, both of this city, were married Monday (yesterday) morning at the residence of Rev. Father E. A. Burke, on Main street. Miss Ramp is the daughter of Mrs. Loretta Ramp, of Convent Heights, this city, and is a sweet, charming young lady. Mr. Porter is the only son of Mrs. Nannie Ransdell, and for several years past has been the manager of the Grand Opera House. He is a talented newspaper man and has a host of friends who congratulate him on winning this accomplished young woman for his life partner. The happy couple left this morning for Rutland, Vt., for a two weeks visit to the bride's brother, Mr. DeMyre Ramp. They will then go to New York City, where Mr. Porter has accepted a position on the New York Journal. The News wishes them much happiness.

The Council and the Inter-Urban.

The scandalous rumors which filled the town in connection with the granting of the franchise to the Interurban Railroad Co. are still fresh in the minds of the people. If one tenth of those rumors are true—and we have heard them denied—that transaction was shameful to all connected with it. Scandals like this are one of the fruits of ring rule. Let's break up this ring. The good morals of the town, the salvation of our children demand it. Let's break it up.

A Pointed Query.

PARIS, KY., Aug. 31, '03.

Editor of News:

I would like to ask the Old Council, through your columns, if they are elected, if they will again appoint a Republican as City Treasurer? It seems a little strange that a Democrat could not be found in the City of Paris to fill this position. Please let this query appear in each issue of THE NEWS until it is answered, as I do not want to vote for a ticket which will appoint Republicans in preference to Democrats.

Respectfully,
A DEMOCRAT.

A Sunday Morning Fire.

About 8 o'clock Sunday morning an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 31 and upon the prompt arrival of our fire department it was discovered that a one-story two-room frame house in the rear of John Ayers residence, in Newtown, one of our colored suburbs, was on fire, with burning shingles flying in every direction. The house where the fire originated burned to the ground, but a small cottage in adjoining yard was partially saved, the roof only being burned off. Our fire department, as it always does, did most excellent work, but was badly handicapped by the poor water pressure. The fire made a big light and drew quite a crowd of our citizens to the scene, who were much amused at times by the stream of water furnished by the water company for fire protection. Our fire laddies deserve much praise in saving any of the adjoining buildings when laboring under such a handicap as the Paris Water Company.

Grand Lodge I. O. O. F.

The annual meeting of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held in Lexington, beginning October 13, and continuing three days.

About 500 delegates from the 220 lodges in the State are expected to be in attendance. The sessions of the body will more than likely be held in Merriak Lodge room on the fourth floor of the building at Short and Limestone streets.

One of the principal features of the program will be the dedication of the large new addition recently made to the Odd Fellows' Widows' and Orphans' Home on Sixth street in that city. The new addition is not intended for a hospital, as erroneously stated in some of the papers, but owing to the large increase of inmates will be used for living apartments.

Of course, there will be the usual Grand Lodge banquet, with toasts, etc., and other pleasing features on the program.

Serious Cutting Affray.

On Saturday night, about 8 o'clock, James Fields seriously and probably fatally cut George Whitesides, on Main street, in this city. Fields is a notorious negro, always in trouble, while Whitesides is a hard working darky and well thought of by both races. It is claimed that Whitesides was in Woods Bros. saloon, on Main between Seventh and Eighth streets, washing his face, when Fields came up behind him and commenced cutting at him with a large knife, following him out on the street, and never stopped using his knife until Whitesides fell some distance down the street from loss of blood. The most serious cuts are one across the temple around the neck, barely missing his jugular, and one half way around his body between the ninth and tenth ribs. The injured man is still alive and doing remarkably well considering his serious wounds. Fields was arrested at Lexington about 11:30 same night, and is now in jail here.

EGOTIST AND HIS PICTURE.

An egotist sat down one day
To look the family album through;
The dust of years upon it lay,
The clasp with verdigris was blue.

Aunt Hattie's picture made him smile,
He laughed at dear old Uncle John
And marveled at the funny style
Of all the clothing he had on.

At Cousin Grace's photograph
He looked awhile and turned his head
Endeavoring to choke a laugh—
For she, so glad some once, was dead.

How awkwardly she seemed to stand,
The happy bride of long ago;
On Reuben's shoulder lay her hand,
He had his oiled hair parted low.

At last the egotist espied
The picture of a boy who gazed
At something far away, squint-eyed
And seemingly a little dazed.

His ears hung out like wings, his hair
Was plastered down across his brow;
His clothes—alas, what boy would dare
To venture out in such things now?

The egotist gazed for awhile
Upon the homely boy, then o'er
His features broke a sickly smile—
He was an egotist no more.

A Daughter of the Sioux

By GEN. CHARLES KING.

Copyright, 1902, by The Hobart Company.

CHAPTER XIX.

The columns of Col. Henry and Maj. Webb, as said "the chief," had united, and here were two men who could be counted on to push the pursuit "for all they were worth." Hitherto, acting in the open country and free from encumbrance, the Indians had been hard to reach. Now they were being driven into their fastnesses among the mountains toward the distant shelter whither their few wounded had been conveyed, and where the old men, the women and children were in hiding. Now it meant that, unless the troops could be confronted and thrown back another transfer of tepees and travois, ponies and dogs, wounded and aged would have to be made. Lane Wolf had thought his people safe behind the walls of the Big Horn, and the shifting screen of warriors along the foothills, but the blue skirmish lines pushed steadily on into the fringing pines driving the feathered braves from ridge to ridge, and Lane Wolf had sense enough to see that here were leaders that "meant business," and would not be held. Henry had ten veteran troops at his back when he united with Webb, who led his own and the Beecher squadron, making 18 companies, or troops, of horse, with their pack mules, all out at the front, while the wagon train and ambulances were thoroughly guarded by a big battalion of sturdy infantry, nearly all of them good marksmen against whose spiteful Springfield rifles the warriors made only one essay in force, and that was more than enough. The bluecoats emptied many an Indian saddle and strewn the prairie with ponies, and sent Whistling Elk and his people to the right about in sore dismay, and then it dawned on Lane Wolf that he must now either mislead the cavalry leader, throw him off the track, as it were, or move the villages, wounded, prisoners and all, across the Big Horn river where hereditary fœmen, Shoshone and Absaraka would surely welcome them red-handed.

It was at this stage of the game he had his final split with Stabber. Stabber was shrewd, and saw unerringly that with other columns out, from Custer on the Little Horn and Washakie on the Wind River—with reinforcements coming from north and south, the surrounding of the Sioux in arms would be but a matter of time. He had done much to get Lane Wolf into the scrape and now was urging hateful measures as, unless they were prepared for further and heavier losses, the one way out, and that was—surrender.

Now, this is almost the last thing the Indian will do. Not from fear of consequences at the hands of his captors, for he well knows that physically, he is infinitely better off when being coddled by Uncle Sam than when fighting in the field. It is simply the loss of prestige among his fellow red men that he hates and dreads. Therefore, nothing short of starvation or probable annihilation prompts him, as a rule, to yield himself a prisoner.

And this was the situation when the general's first dispatches were sent in to Frayne—this the last news to reach the garrison from the distant front for five long days, and then one morning, when the snow was sifting softly down, there came tidings that thrilled the little community, heart and soul—tidings that were heard with mingled tears and prayers and rejoicings, and that led to many a visit of congratulation to Mrs. Hay, who, poor woman, dare not say at the moment that she had known it all as much as 24 hours earlier, despite the fact that Pete and Crapaud were banished from the roll of her auxiliaries.

Even as the new couriers came speeding through the veil of falling flakes, riding jubilantly over the wide-rolling prairie with their news of victory and battle, the post commander at Fort Frayne was puzzling over a missive that had come to him, he knew not how—mysteriously as the anarchists' warnings are said to find their way to the very bedside of the guarded Romanoffs. Sentry Number 4 had picked it up on his post an hour before the dawn—a letter addressed in bold hand to Maj. Stanley Flint, commanding Fort Frayne, and, presuming the major himself had dropped it, he turned it over to the corporal of his relief, and so it found its way toward reveille into the hands of old McGann, wheezing about his work of building fires, and Michael laid it on the major's table and thought no more about it until two hours later when the major roused and read, and then a row began that ended only with the other worries of his incumbency at Frayne.

Secretly Flint was doing his best to discover the bearer when came the bold riders from the north with their thrilling news. Secretly, he had been over at the guard-house interviewing as best he could, by the aid of an unwilling clerk who spoke a little Sioux, a young Indian girl whom Crabb's convalescent squad, four in number, had most unexpectedly run down, when sent scouting five miles up the Platte, and brought, screaming, scratching and protesting, back to Frayne. Her pony had been killed in the dash to escape, and the two Indians with her seemed to be young lads not yet well schooled as warriors, for they rode away pell-mell over the prairie, leaving the girl to the mercy of the soldiers. Flint believed her to be connected in some way with the coming of the disturbing note, which was why he compelled her detention at the guard-house. Under Webb's regime, she would have been questioned by Hay, or some one of his household. Under Flint, no one of Hay's family or retainers could be allowed to see her. He regarded it as most significant that her shrillest screams and fiercest resistance should have been reserved until just as her guardians were bearing her past the trader's house. She had the light little prison room to herself all that wintry morning, and there, disdainful of bunk or chair, enveloped in her blanket, she squatted disconsolate, greeting all questioners with defiant and fearless shruggings and inarticulate protest. Not a syllable of explanation, not a shred of news could their best endeavors wring from her. Yet her glittering eyes were surely in search of some one, for she looked up eagerly every time the door was opened, and Flint was just beginning to think he would have to send for Mrs. Hay when the couriers came with their stirring news and he had to drop other affairs in order to forward this important matter to headquarters.

Once again, it seems, Trooper Kennedy had been entrusted with distinguished duty, for it was he who came trotting foremost up the road, waving his dispatch on high. A comrade from Blake's troop, following through the ford, had turned to the left and led his horse up the steep to the quarters nearest the flagstaff. This time there was no big-hearted post commander to bid the Irishman refresh himself at libitum. Flint was alone at his office, at the moment, and knew not this strange trooper, and looked askance at his heterodox garb and war-worn guise. Such laxity, said he to himself, was not permitted where he had hitherto served, which was never on Indian campaign. Kennedy, having delivered his dispatches, stood mutely expectant of question, and struggling with an Irishman's enthusiastic eagerness to tell the details of the heavy fight, but Flint had but one method of getting at facts—the official reports—and Kennedy stood unnoticed until, impatient at last, he queried:

"Beg pardon, sir, but may we put up our horses?"

"Who's we?" asked the major, bluntly. "And where are the others?"

"Trigg, sir—Capt. Blake's troop. He went to the captain's quarters with a package."

"He should have reported himself first to the post commander," said the major, who deemed it advisable to make prompt impression on these savage hunters of savage game.

"Thim wasn't his orders, surr," said Kennedy, with zeal, but misguided loyalty to his comrades and his regiment.

"No one has a right, sir, to give orders that are contrary in spirit to the regulations and customs of the service," answered the commander, with proper austerity. "Mr. Wilkins," he continued, as the burly quartermaster came bustling in, "have the other trooper sent to report at once to me and let this man wait outside till I am ready to see him."

And so it happened that a dozen members of the garrison gathered, from the lips of a participant, stirring particulars of a spirited chase and fight that set soldiers to cheering and women and children to extravagant scenes of rejoicing before the official head of the garrison gave out the news. Kennedy had taken satisfaction for the commander's slights by telling the tidings broadcast to the crowd that quickly gathered, and, in three minutes, the word was flying from lip to lip that the troops had run down Lane Wolf's main village after an all-day, all-night rush to head them off, and that with very small loss they had been able to capture many of the families and to scatter the warriors among the hills.

In brief, while Henry, with the main body, had followed the trail of the fighting band, Webb had been detached, and, with two squadrons, had ridden hard after a Shoshone guide, who led them by a short cut through the range and enabled them to pounce on the village where were most of Lane Wolf's non-combatants, guarded only by a small party of warriors, and, while Capt. Billings and Ray, with their troops, remained in charge of these captives, Webb, with Blake and the others, had pushed on in pursuit of certain braves who had scampered into the thick of the hills, carrying a few of the wounded and prisoners with them. Among those captured, were Mr. Hay and Crapaud. Among those who had been spirited away was Nanette Flower. This seemed strange and unaccountable.

And yet Blake had found time to write to his winsome wife—to send her an important missive and most important bit of news. It was with these she came running in to Mrs. Hay before the latter had time to half read the long letter received from her soldier husband, and we take the facts in the order of their revelation.

"Think of it, Madie," she cried, "Think of it! Gerald's first words, almost, are, 'Take good care of that pouch and contents,' and now pouch and contents are gone! Whoever dreamed that they would be of such consequence? He says the newspaper will explain."

And presently the two bonny heads were bent over the big sheets of a dingy, grimy copy of a Philadelphia daily, and there, on an inner page, heavily marked, appeared a strange item, and this Quaker City journal had been picked up in an Ogallala camp. The item read as follows:

AN UNTAMED SIOUX.

The authorities of the Carlisle School and the police of Harrisburg are hunting high and low for a young Indian known to the records of the Academy as Ralph Moreau, but borne on the pay rolls of Buffalo Bill's Wild West aggregation as Eagle Wing—a youth who is credited with having given the renowned scout-showman more trouble than all his braves, bronchos and "busters" thereof combined. Being of superb physique and a daring horseman, Moreau had been forgiven many a peccadillo, and had followed the fortunes of the show two consecutive summers until Cody finally had to get rid of him as an intolerable nuisance.

It seems that when a lad of 13, "Eagle Wing" had been sent to Carlisle, where he ran the gamut of scrapes of every conceivable kind. He spoke English picked up about the agencies; had influential friends and, in some clandestine way, received occasional supplies of money that enabled him to take French leave when he felt like it. He was sent back from Carlisle to Dakota as irremediable, and after a year or two on his native heath, reappeared among the haunts of civilization as one of Buffalo Bill's warriors. Bill discharged him at Cincinnati and, at the instance of the Indian bureau, he was again placed at Carlisle, only to repeat on a larger scale his earlier exploits and secure a second transfer to the plains where his opportunities for devilment were limited. Then Cody was induced to take him on again by profuse promises of good behavior, which were kept until Pennsylvania soil was reached two weeks ago, when he broke loose again; was seen in store clothes around West Philadelphia for a few days, plentifully supplied with money, and next he turned up in the streets of Carlisle, where he assaulted an attaché of the school, whose life was barely saved by the prompt efforts of other Indian students. Moreau escaped to Harrisburg, which he proceeded to paint with his favorite color that very night, and wound up the entertainment by galloping away on the horse of a prominent official, who had essayed to escort him back to Carlisle. It is believed that he is now in hiding somewhere about the suburbs of West Philadelphia, and that an innate propensity for devilment will speedily betray him to the clutches of the law.

A few moments after reading this oddly interesting story the two friends were in consultation with Mrs. Dade, who, in turn, called in Dr. Waller, just returning from the hospital and a not too satisfactory visit to Mr. Field. There had been a slight change for the better in the condition of Gen. Field that had enabled Dr. Lorain, of Fort Russell, and a local physician to arrange for his speedy transfer to Cheyenne. This had in a measure relieved the anxiety of Waller's patient, but never yet had the veteran practitioner permitted him to know that he was practically a prisoner as well as a patient. Waller feared the result on so high-strung a temperament, and had made young Field believe that, when strong and well enough to attempt the journey, he should be sent to Rock Springs. Indeed, Dr. Waller had no intention of submitting to Maj. Flint's decision as final. He had written personally to the medical director of the department, acquainting him with the facts, and, meanwhile, had withdrawn himself as far as possible, officially and socially, from the limited circle in which moved his perturbed commanding officer.

He was at a distant point of the garrison, therefore, and listening to the excited and vehement comments of the younger of the three women upon this strange newspaper story, and its possible connection with matters at Frayne, at the moment when a dramatic scene was being enacted over beyond the guard-house. Kennedy was still the center of a little group of eager listeners when Pink Marble, factotum of the trader's store, came hurrying forth from the adjutant's office, speedily followed by Maj. Flint. "You may tell Mrs. Hay that while I cannot permit her to visit the prisoner," he called after the clerk, "I will send the girl over—under suitable guard."

To this Mr. Marble merely shrugged his shoulders and went on. He fancied Flint no more than did the relics of the original garrison. A little later Flint personally gave an order to the sergeant of the guard and then came commotion.

First there were stifled sounds of scuffle from the interior of the guard-house; then shrill, wrathful screams; then a woman's voice uplifted in wild upbraidings in an unknown tongue, at sound of which Trooper Kennedy dropped his rein and his jaw, stood staring one minute; then, with the exclamation: "Mother of God, but I know that woman!" burst his way through the crowd and ran toward the old log blockhouse at the gate—the temporary post of the guard. Just as he turned the corner of the building, almost stumbling against the post commander, there came bursting forth from the dark interior a young woman of the Sioux, daring, furious, raging, and, breaking loose from the grasp of the two luckless soldiers who had her by the arms, away she darted down the road, still screaming like some infuriated child, and rushed straight for the open gateway of the Hay's. Of course the guard hastened in pursuit, the major shouting "Stop her! Catch her!" and the men striving to appear to obey, yet shirking the feat of seizing the fleeing woman. Fancy, then, the amazement of the swiftly following spectators when the trader's front door was thrown wide open and Mrs. Hay herself sprang forth. Another instant and the two women had met at the gate. Another instant still, and, with one motherly arm twining about the quivering, panting, pleading girl and straining her to the motherly heart, Mrs. Hay's right hand and arm flew up in the superb gesture known the wide frontier over as the Indian signal, "Halt!" and halt they did, every mother's son save Kennedy, who sprang to the side of the girl and faced the men in blue. And then another woman's voice, rich, deep, ringing, powerful, fell on the ears of the amazed, swift-gathering throng, with the marvelous order: "Stand where you are! You shan't touch a hair of her head! She's a chief's daughter. She's my own kin, and I'll answer for her to the general himself. As for you," she added, turning now and glaring straight at the astounded Flint, all the pent-up sense of wrath, indignity, shame and wrong overmastering any thought of prudence or of "the divinity that doth hedge" the commanding officer, "As for you," she cried, "I pity you when our own get back again! God help you, Stanley Flint, the moment my husband sets eyes on you. D'you know the message that came to him this day?"

And now the words rang louder and clearer, as she addressed the throng. "I do, and so do officers and gentlemen who'd be ashamed to have to shake hands with such as he. He's got my husband's note about him now, and what my husband wrote was this—I charge myself with every dollar you charge to Field, and with the further obligation of thrashing you on sight—and, mark you, he'll do it!"

An Awkward Moment.

There is a story which Sir Edward Malet recalls of a situation hardly equalled in fiction. A certain cardinal at an evening party, when pressed by an admiring circle of ladies to say whether he had ever received any startling confessions, replied that the first person who had come to him after he had taken orders desired absolution for a murder which he confessed to having committed. A gentle shudder ran through the frames of the audience. This was turned to consternation when, ten minutes later, an elderly marquess entered the apartment and eagerly claimed acquaintance with the cardinal. "But I see your eminence does not remember me," he said. "You will do so when I remind you that I was the first person who confessed to you after you entered the service of the church!"—St. James' Gazette.

Rival Odors.

There is a story attaching to one of Bismarck's cigars. The first Lord Amthill called upon the Chancellor, and, while he waited, out came Count Harry Arnim, fanning himself with his handkerchief, and looking as if he were about to choke. "Well," he said, "I cannot understand how Bismarck can bear that—smoking the strongest Havanas in a stuffy little room. I had to beg him to open the window." When the Englishman entered the apartment he found Bismarck, apparently gasping for breath, at the open window. "What strange tastes some people have," he said. "Arnim has just been with me, and he was so overpoweringly perfumed that I could stand it no longer, and had to open the window."—St. James' Gazette.

A Real Distinction.

Two ministers were discussing the characteristics of a third, who was known for his zeal as a controversialist.

"Still, with all his peculiarities," said one of them, "Brother Putnam leads a deeply religious life, does he not?"

"Well," responded the other, "I will hardly go so far as that, but I can say that I think he leads a deeply theological life."—Youth's Companion.

EARNED WIDOW'S GRATITUDE.

Made Himself Scarce and Left the Way Clear for Man with Proposal.

I reached the cabin of the Widow Ruggles just before sunset and just as the rain began to fall, relates a writer in Detroit Free Press. When I asked her if I could put up for the night she said:

"I hev five children and yo'll hev to sleep with two of them if yo'stay."

I assured her that it would be all right, but there was a troubled look on her face as she continued:

"Stranger, I forgot about Moses Johnson. It's his night fur comin'."

"And what about Moses Johnson?"

"It's his night fur droppin' in to spark."

"Well, I shan't object to that if he doesn't. You can go ahead and do your sparking just the same as if I wasn't here."

"But he's a powerful quare man, Moses is," she said, with a great deal of earnestness. "He wouldn't sit down within ten feet of me with a stranger in the house and he might git mad and go home. I've bin a widder four years and Moses is the first feller that has come junin' around."

"And you don't want to lose him, of course?"

"Of course not. I don't want to turn yo' away and yet I'll hev to look out for Moses. I'm sorry I'll hev to put yo' out of the way as soon as yo've had supper."

"Not at all. I'll be out of the way in 15 minutes."

As soon as supper was finished one of the children climbed a ladder leading to the garret to light the way and I followed. After a smoke I turned in on the corn-husk bed and, being dead tired, I was soon asleep and did not open my eyes till morning. When I descended the ladder the widow met me with a radiant countenance and said:

"Stranger, I wish to thank yo' from the bottom of my heart."

"But for what?"

"Fur takin' to the garret and gittin' outer Moses' way last night. Yo' had jest begun to snore when he walks and 30 minits later had popped the question and I had answered him 'Yo' bet.' If yo'd been sittin' around Moses would hev had to shoulder a shotgun and go out and round up another critter of some sort."

"Sot right down and eat and drink all yo' kin hold and thar'll be no bill to pay and may the Lawd bless yo' fur yo'r hoes sense and willingness to help the widdered and the fatherless."

CHILDREN WITH MONEY.

American Parents Are Too Careless About the Way the Young Folks Spend It.

By courtesy of the authorities a certain club of women recently questioned the 600 children in a city grammar school about the money earned by them or given to them; and the uses they make of it. The children were of both sexes, represented both native and immigrant parentage, ranged in age from nine to fifteen years, and belonged to the class to which the average citizen belongs, that of the "comfortably poor," says Youth's Companion.

All of these children but one boy—who may have been a humorist—admitted that they frequently had money to spend or to save. Fewer than one-third received an allowance. Five-sixths earned more or less money. Two-thirds said that they generally got money in haphazard fashion, "whenever I ask for it."

Easy come, easy go. The money thus carelessly given was as carelessly spent, most of it for candy. Not half the children were advised by their parents what to do with their nickels and dimes. In this respect American parents made the worst showing of all. Theirs will be the blame if, 20 years hence, their children are living from hand to mouth when children of the immigrants are buying real estate.

To give a son or daughter a regular allowance is a wise measure, but that is only the beginning of wisdom. He or she should be taught to get the worth of money spent, and exhorted, too, not to spend all. Most Americans dislike to seem parsimonious, and therefore neglect to talk over financial matters with their children. Their German and Italian neighbors are not so afraid of inculcating thrift and forethought. Would that the native could grasp the truth they act upon, that a spendthrift is as foolish a creature as a miser!

Getting Even with the Chinese.

Some years ago, when Chinese oppression was intolerable, American merchants had the alternative of wearing the Chinese costume and shaving their heads or leaving the country. A number of Americans, in order to protect their interests, adopted the dress of the land. Capt. B. H. McCalla, of the American navy, serving his country in Chinese waters at that time, encountered one of these transformed Americans.

"Had to do it?" said one of the transformed Americans, pointing to his head and queue.

"I presume conditions warrant this sacrifice of your Americanism?" said the captain, scornfully.

"Let me tell you," said the American-Chinese, drawing closer to the captain, "the Chinese make me wear a pigtail, but in return I make quite a few Chinese tael myself."

A Group of Tornadoes.

At Oakley the other day the people witnessed the spectacle of five tornadoes whirling along at the same time. They would dart their snakelike tails toward the ground, drawing them up to dart again, but only one reached the earth. This one tore things up for about 20 minutes in passing over a considerable scope of country and then vanished aloft in a purple-black cloud.—Kansas City Journal.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Frills and Finery for Feminine Followers of the Styles in Dress.

Plaited sleeves, cape effects, cords, balls, pendants, fringes, buttons and embroidered bands are features of the new styles in separate coats, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

Combination gold and silver galloon is used as trimming on some recent productions in hats and wraps from leading Parisian designers.

Reproductions of the styles of 1830 are expected to be much in evidence during the next few months.

From Paris comes word of a new and handsome garniture in the form of a trellis work of tiny beads about five inches broad on which run three rows of narrow fringe placed horizontally. The beads are colored, the fringe black or white.

Sleeves grow in width and lengthen perceptibly. The dolman sleeve figures on some of the coats, fitting the arm inside, and made very baggy from the elbow on the outside; others are tight from the bend of the arm to the wrist, and very wide above.

Embroidered tussore makes a lovely summer gown and one seen recently in this fabric was set off with deep shoulder cape in self material and belt of taffeta to match. A hat of burnt straw trimmed with green foliage and white tulle caught at the back with two steel ornaments was worn with this costume.

Shirwaists of white Madras are decorated with spider-like designs in black. A veiling novelty is on the order of thin crepe de chine furnished with a border in fancy cat-stitch forming diamonds. This veiling comes in all colors.

The distinguishing feature of the summer hat is the way in which the feather is put on.

Lilies are among the fashionable flowers for hat decoration. White, blue and purple blossoms are combined in large wreaths and placed around the brim of straw hats.

With cream toned dresses carved ivory ornaments are being worn.

The chief characteristics of the new dress fabrics is the soft blending of shades. Green and blue are the principal colors, but in nearly all combinations black has an important part.

WHY HE TURNED PALE.

Bullet Splashed White-wash Over His Face and It Was Nothing Strange.

At a shooting range there is usually a telephone from the marksman's stand to the target. The marker is thus in communication with the shooter, and if care is used is in no danger. Occasionally, however, accidents happen like the following, says London Tit-Bits.

Sir Henry Halford was shooting at a range of 1,000 yards. The day was not clear, and it was impossible at such a distance to see surely, even through a glass, the movements of the marker. Thinking the marker must be ready for him to begin, Sir Henry asked through the telephone: "Are you all right?"

The marker replied: "All right, sir, in a minute."

Unluckily, Sir Henry caught the "All right, sir," but missed the last part of the sentence by removing the telephone too soon from his ear.

He lay down and fired a shot. On looking through his telescope he was horrified to see the marker with a perfectly white face staggering toward his shelter.

Ringing him up on the telephone, Sir Henry cried: "What has happened? Are you badly hurt?"

"No, sir, I'm not hurt," came the reply; "but I had a bucket of whitewash between my legs painting the target, and you put a bullet into it and splashed it all over my face."

YOUR SLEEPING ROOM.

It Should Be Large Enough to Permit of Healthy Respiration.

Each person requires 1,000 cubic feet of air in the sleeping room. Measure the room you sleep in, and see if you have 1,000 cubic feet, advises Medical Talk for the Home. Multiply the length by the breadth, and then multiply this product by the height of the room, and if this equals 1,000 you have 1,000 cubic feet. For instance, suppose your room is ten feet square, and ten feet high, then you have exactly 1,000 cubic feet in your sleeping room.

A room of this size, if it is kept well ventilated, is sufficient for healthy respiration. If it is smaller than this it is insufficient. If your sleeping room is only eight feet high it should be a little over 11 feet square.

From these examples anyone can figure up for himself the size of his sleeping room. Should he discover that he is sleeping in an undersized room, and finds it impossible to secure a larger room, he should then use greater vigilance to keep it constantly ventilated, so as to secure as frequent a change of air in the room as possible.

Sweet Corn Cake.

Mix one cupful of cornmeal with one cupful of flour, one-half cupful of sugar and saltspoonful of salt. Beat two eggs light, add one cupful of milk and three teaspoonfuls of melted butter. Stir this into the dry materials and beat, then stir in four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and bake 20 minutes in a moderately quick oven.—Detroit Free Press.

Prize for Modesty.

St. Medard of France, in the sixth century, instituted a festival at Salency, with a prize for the young girl who was acknowledged to be the most amiable and modest. The prize was a wreath of white roses. This custom still survives, the crown of roses being yearly awarded to the most modest of the village maidens.

Many Persons Have Catarrh and Don't Know It.

Mr. James M. Powell, 603 Troost street, Kansas City, Mo., Vice Grand of I. O. O. F., of Cherryville, Kan., writes:

"About four years ago I suffered with a severe catarrh of the bladder, which caused continued irritation and pain. I was miserable and could not stand up or walk for any length of time without extreme weariness and pain. I began taking Peruna and it greatly relieved me, and in eleven weeks I was completely cured and felt like a new man."—James M. Powell.

Hundreds of Dollars Spent in Vain.

Mr. Cyrus Hershman, Sheridan, Ind., writes:

"Two years ago I was a sick man. Catarrh had settled in the pelvic organs, making life a burden and giving me little hope of recovery. I spent hundreds of dollars in medicine which did me no good. I was persuaded by a friend to try Peruna. I took it two weeks without much improvement, but I kept on with it and soon began to get well and strong very fast. Within two months I was cured, and have been well ever since. I am a strong advocate of Peruna."—C. Hershman.

WINCHESTER

RIFLE & PISTOL CARTRIDGES.

"It's the shots that hit that count." Winchester Rifle and Pistol Cartridges in all calibers hit, that is, they shoot accurately and strike a good, hard, penetrating blow. This is the kind of cartridges you will get, if you insist on having the time-tried Winchester make.

ALL DEALERS SELL WINCHESTER MAKE OF CARTRIDGES.

The Bible and the Empire State Express.

A Bible student has recently been figuring on how long it would have taken the people to make the journey from Dan to Beersheba if they could have had the benefit in the olden times of the Empire State Express. He figured that the train would have made this journey in less than three hours, although from a reading of the account in the Bible one would think it was a long journey, and it was for those days with their limited means of transportation. Ezekiel, the Chaldean prophet, had in his mind's eye something like the Empire State Express when he uttered the words recorded in the first chapter of his prophecy. Look this up and see if you do not agree with the idea.—From the Troy Daily Times.

Farmers, you need no longer fear to raise and feed Hogs. We not only claim to cure Cholera, but we guarantee to prevent any such disease from breaking out among your Hogs or Poultry, if our remedy is used as directed. It is also fine for Brood Sows before farrowing, being a good blood medicine, which places them in a healthy condition. You cannot afford to be without this remedy if you expect to raise and feed Hogs, as you will more than make the price of the medicine in the extra gain in your hogs, and then you can rest assured they will have no disease. If they do we will refund the money. Write for testimonials.
